Title: Gloria Kaufman Collection

Abstract:

Dr. Gloria Kaufman served as professor of English and Women's Studies at Indiana University South Bend from 1967 to 1992. Dr. Kaufman created B250, inviting influential and controversial feminists and other intellectuals to give guest lectures. This course began as a speaker series and then expanded into a course with a curriculum and exams. The Women's Studies Program has grown from one course to a program that includes a minor and a major. Dr. Kaufman created the first Women's Resource Center on campus and served as IU South Bend's first Affirmative Action officer, hired by Chancellor Les Wolfson in 1973. Dr. Kaufman published widely, including articles in numerous publications locally and nationally. In addition, she edited two anthologies of feminist humor: Pulling Our Own Strings: Feminist Humor and Satire in 1980, and In Stitches: A Patch Work of Feminist Humor in 1991.

This collection's materials span from 1947 to 1992, and contains materials on the Gloria Kaufman Memorial Fund setup in 2004. The collection includes Dr. Kaufman's own writings; including her scholarly output and articles that appeared in newspapers including The Chicago Tribune, The South Bend Tribune, as well as articles in the Michiana Point of View and the student newspaper of Indiana University of South Bend, The Preface. Dr. Kauffman even had a regular column on books and reading in the local newspaper, The South Bend Tribune. Additionally, there are files of transcribed testimonies before the St. Joseph County Commission on Women which illustrate her in-depth and meticulous community service projects as well as research data from these testimonies and projects. Present is correspondence between Kaufman and notable and prominent feminists and scholars of the time, including Joyce Carol Oates and Hillary Rodham Clinton. Additionally, there is correspondence that reflects Kaufman's efforts to establish the Women's Studies Program (now recognized as the Women and Gender Studies Program). There is generous material demonstrating Dr. Kaufman's academic accomplishments in publishing and professionally, including her paper that won IU South Bend's prominent Lundquist Award (recognizing her strong service to campus) in 1992.

Scope/Content Note:

This collection was donated by Gloria Kaufman's daughter, Miriam Viktora, in 2009 and 2010.

This collection begins in 1947 and the last files are from 2004. The collection consists of original documents from typed and hand written papers, letters, newspaper clippings, drawings as well as course curriculums and meeting minutes. This collection also has video and audio files dating from 1977 to 1995. There are audio files from lectures from the B250 class, such as "Women and the U.S. Supreme Court", classes like B250 and L204, panels regarding Feminist Humor, Feminist Policy, Feminist Philosophy, and many workshops such as the many files of the Budapest workshop that reflects on women's roles (with feminist lecturer and author Zsuzsanna Budapest). Dr. Kaufman had a business recording and distributing scholarly lectures from her home – these visual home system files span from 1983 to 1992. There is research on herbs, plants, bees, and animal products that have a medicinal value. Additionally there is donation agreement materials from the Indiana University Foundation's Gift Agreement for the Gloria Kaufman Memorial Fund which was started by Dr. Barbara L. Williams, MD, PhD, South Bend in 2004 as well as memorial materials upon Dr. Kaufman's death in 2004.

Boxes 1 and 2 of the collection contain Dr. Kaufman's papers, and Box 3 of the collection contains audio files, Box 4 of the collection contains videos.
