Title: Indiana University South Bend Flat Storage Finding Aid

Abstract: Inventory cataloging the contents of the items in flat storage of the Archives of Indiana University South Bend. The items in flat storage are oversized items such as blue prints, posters and banners. These items have been separated out from the respective collections to which they belong, as they do not fit in the collections' otherwise standard-sized housing.

Scope and Content Note: The flat storage drawers are located in Library rooms 204A and 009. They contain items from the James Lewis Casaday Collection, the Women's Studies Program Collection, and the Performing Arts Collection, along with various items from campus-wide events, student publications and student club events, among items from other collections. Flat storage also houses the blueprints for buildings on the IU South Bend campus and also overviews of the entire campus. Dates for the collection range from 1929 to the present. Many of the items are larger items from the existing collections in the IUSB Archives, as mentioned above, and are cross referenced. Note that the format of each item is listed in upper case in order to both draw attention to each item and to emphasize just what it is.
