Title: IU South Bend Student Housing Collection

Abstract:

This collection chronicles Indiana University South Bend's Student Housing. The material dates from planning the pedestrian bridge that spans the St. Joseph River connecting the main campus to Student Housing itself, to the construction of the student dormitories to the present.

Scope and Content Note:

This collection is organized chronologically. It begins with a notice of the intention to build student housing on campus in mid the 1990's, and proceeds through the construction of the pedestrian bridge over the St. Joseph River in 2006 and continues to the completion of Student Housing dormitories in 2008. Also included are materials for any activities for students sponsored by Student Housing since 2006. Most formats of the materials consist of hard copy prints of online bulletin board posts, IU South Bend Chancellor reports, floor plans and brochures. Additional images of IU South Bend Student Housing can be found in the Archives' Photographs Collection.
